Homecoming Weekend A Success

By GREG CARLSEN

The 36th Annual MBA Homecoming and Spaghetti Supper, held on October 17, was a total success.

The turnout for the supper this year was 2400 people, 300 people less than last year. Considering the heavy rains which hampered the event, this was an excellent turnout.

The Ladies' Auxiliary spent a much larger amount of money (about $2200) on promotion of the Homecoming Festivities this year than in previous years. As a result of the promotions, the total profit this year was $16,800.

Ladies' Auxiliary Chairperson Carolyn O'Neal was especially pleased with the involvement and enthusiasm of the student body. One student whom she singled out in describing the involvement of the student body in the event was Jay Brothers, the top salesman with about $700 in supper and chance ticket sales. A large number of pins, mugs, and caps are left over from the event, and these will be sold at future athletic events.

The inclement weather, though it did not result in the cancellation of the game, did dash the plans for the presentation of the Homecoming Queen and her Court. The presentation took place at the Hendersonville game the next Friday. Since the weather was also disagreeable at that time, Queen

Peaches Salyer and her court were presented without using cars for escorts.

Many prizes were awarded during the Homecoming week end. Several of the major prizes were a year's membership to Westside Racquet Club, won by Mr. Weick, a ten-speed bicycle, won by French McKnight, and the grand prize, a 1981 Chevrolet Chevette won by Chris Stephens' girlfriend Laura Reher.

During the Spaghetti Supper, Mr. Womack's "mysterious structure" was revealed to be a 20 foot long reclining figure of an MBA football player. The waitresses, composed of friends and sisters of MBA students, did an excellent job of serving during the supper.

The Homecoming Dance on Saturday night was a tremendous success, largely because of the band "Contraband." Jody Lentz should be commended for the selection of the band, and we hope that "Contraband" will return to MBA in the future.

Among those who worked faithfully to make the weekend a success were David Felts, David Tune, Scott O'Neal, Trey Rochford, and Mike Hughes, who helped during the preparation and clean-up of the event.

Of course, special thanks must go to all the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary who spent countless hours attempting to make the event a thoroughly enjoyable and most successful Homecoming.

Seniors Tour Eastern Colleges

By CARLISLE HERRON

From November 16 to November 19, 24 seniors and two teachers traveled 1500 miles to visit eight different colleges in Virginia and North Carolina.

The trip was undertaken in order to expose all interested seniors to both large and small college campuses and to different types of colleges. Washington and Lee University, VMI, University of Virginia (UVA), and Hampden-Sydney were the colleges in Virginia which were visited. In North Carolina, seniors toured Duke University, University of North Carolina (UNC), St. Andrews College, and Davidson. Overnight accommodations were arranged at three of the smaller colleges: Washington and Lee, Hampden-Sydney, and St. Andrews.

Arriving at MBA at 6:00 am early Sunday morning, the seniors and the two teachers, Mr. Drake and Mr. Compton, boarded the bus for a long Sunday drive to Washington and Lee, a small, all-male college in Lexington, Virginia. Sunday evening included a tour of the campus and a recreational time in the gym. Monday morning was set aside for the seniors to attend one class apiece. Then the group visited VMI, right next door to Washington and Lee. The seniors were impressed with the formality and discipline of this college along with its fine honor system.

Monday afternoon was spent touring UVA in Charlottesville, Virginia. This college is well known for all of its programs and especially for pre-law. Monday evening included a drive to Hampden-Sydney, Virginia to visit the college by the same name. As at Washington and Lee, the evening was spent touring the campus and enjoying the gym facilities.

The seniors toured the campus in greater detail Tuesday morning and loaded the bus again for the trip to Duke in Durham, North Carolina. Duke presented a beautiful example of Gothic architecture on a college campus in the form of many of its dormitories and classroom buildings; the college chapel was especially impressive along with the high academic standards of the college.

Tuesday afternoon was spent at UNC situated close to downtown Chapel Hill. The senior group particularly noticed the great size of this very large college. Tuesday night was spent at St. Andrews College in Laurinburg, North Carolina. Once again, the students and teachers were able to learn about the college that night and to enjoy basketball, jogging, and racquetball in the gym.

Wednesday morning was spent in various classes at the college before the group moved on to Davidson, North Carolina to visit Davidson College, a small, but very well known, liberal arts college. The seniors were able to tour the campus and learn valuable information about the college before the final long trip was made back to Nashville.

At each college visited, the seniors were able to tour the campus, ask questions of a member of the admissions board of the college, talk to college students, and obtain applications and informative brochures of the college being visited.

The trip was very carefully planned and scheduled; the seniors were able to spend the same amount of time at each college. Although the seniors were well chaperoned during the trip, they did have some free time in the evenings to look over the campus, talk to students, find the game room, play basketball, or just relax from a busy day.

Entertainment highlights included electronic games, a tape player, and several jokes on the bus; a game room at Hampden-Sydney; and a bowling alley on campus at St. Andrews. Breakfast and dinner were generally furnished by the colleges at which the group spent the night. Lunches were purchased on the road to other colleges.

The seniors and teachers all enjoyed themselves during this trip while learning a great deal at the same time. Even for seniors who were not planning to apply to any of the eight colleges visited, the trip presented an interesting view of the differences in different types of colleges.

At the moment, a possible college trip is being discussed for the junior class in the spring of 1981 with such a trip being an annual event in the spring of each successive year. No matter when the next trip will take place, the trip is well worth the time and the money spent to help MBA students plan ahead for their college days.

MBA Triumphs In Nurserymen's Bowl

By TOM WOOD

The MBA Football Team surprised many observers and many Mt. Juliet fans with a 14-6 victory over the Golden Bears in the 1980 Nurserymen's Bowl in McMinnville.

Quarterback Scott Tune and tailback Garrett Fulton, who replaced the injured Mark Daniel early in the game played at Warren County High School's Nunley Stadium, led the Big Red on offense, while a sterling defensive effort enabled the team to control the game's tempo.

MBA scored first on Fulton's one-yard dive, which capped a 10-play, 64-yard drive highlighted by wingback Mark Peffen's 21-yard reception from Tune and Fulton's 29-yard run. Fulton's plunge with 5:16 left in the first quarter and Adam Wieck's extra point gave the Big Red a 7-0 lead which they never relinquished.

Mt. Juliet's only score was set up by Brad McKinney's 15-yard punt deep in MBA territory. McKinney later atoned for the short kick, however, with punts of 52 and 54 yards, one of which rolled dead at the opposition's 6-yard line. The kick gave Mt. Juliet possession at the 27, from which the Bears scored in five plays. Tailback Garrett Roby went the final nine yards for the touchdown. MBA still maintained a one-point lead since the conversion attempt failed.

The Big Red held on to this precarious margin until an 18-yard pass from Tune to Peffen gave the team an insurance touchdown with 8:35 remaining in the final stanza. The over-the-middle completion was the culmination of a 7-play, 55-yard drive kept alive by a play from Coach Owen's bag of tricks. The offense, faced with a long-yardage situation, ran the "flea-flicker," in which Tune hit Mike Johnson on an out route and Johnson lateraled to Billy Rolfe. The play covered 14 yards and was good for a first down. The touchdown and Wieck's extra point kick made the final score 14-6.

Fulton and Mt. Juliet quarterback Chuck Hamby were named most valuable players in the game for their respective teams, and Scott Tune was honored as the contest's overall MVP. Tune completed 8 of 10 passes for 99 yards and a touchdown; Fulton carried the ball 13 times for 62 yards. As a team, MBA outgained the Golden Bears in total offense by 64 yards, running 48 plays for 216 yards while the opposition ran 45 plays for 152 yards.

MBA and Mt. Juliet both finished their 1980 seasons with 9-2 records; Mt. Juliet's only other loss was to Gallatin by a 2-0 score, and MBA's losses occurred consecutively to McCallie and Father Ryan early in the season. Both teams expect to challenge for playoff berths next year.

Literary Issue In January

This year the editors plan to bring out the literary edition during January. They are interested in short stories, poems, essays, journals, artistic photographs, and art works (that can be photographed) not only by students but also by faculty members. Works in foreign languages are more than welcome.

Second Of A Series On Faculty Views

Coach Owen Talks About Student Attitudes

By DON FAIRBAIRN

Mr. Tommy Owen, one of the most respected members of the Montgomery Bell Academy faculty, recently revealed some of his thoughts concerning the school in an interview with The Bell Ringer. In this interview, Coach Owen addressed topics such as students' attitudes and school spirit, the role of athletics and other extracurricular activities in one's personal development, and some of the projected changes in the school for the future.

The Bell Ringer: What do you think is the role of MBA in preparing young men for college and for life?

Coach Owen: I think the role of MBA is the same now as it has always been, that is to prepare boys academically to get themselves into the college which they want to attend. Also, MBA can hopefully prepare young men socially and athletically to perform and become to compete in a society that is becoming more and more difficult to live in every day. With the right kind of leadership and activities associated with MBA, hopefully we will be able to fulfill those goals.

The Bell Ringer: What part do you think athletics plays in one's personal development?

Coach Owen: I think that a young man who has been associated with competitive athletics has several advantages over someone who has not had that opportunity. I think sometimes not as many young men here at MBA avail themselves of what is really here for them to take part in. By taking part in competitive sports, young people have opportunities for leadership and responsibility, and I hope more people will take advantage of these opportunities and not just be scholars while they are at MBA.

students of the school, as a coach and a teacher?

Coach Owen: I think the teacher's responsibility is to be the best teacher he can be, to be well prepared, and to be informative in the classroom. I think it is the coach's responsibility to make himself as highly qualified as possible in the sport with which he is associated. This is an area where I believe we need to improve. I think some of the coaches are very dedicated to trying to improve their coaching ability, but I do not think some of the others are as dedicated. Obviously this is because they are primarily classroom teachers and their role in the athletic program is not their major concern. I think this is what their role should be as outstanding teachers; but in an independent school where all of the male teachers are involved in athletics at some time in their career, they owe it to the students to try to improve their coaching ability and be as highly qualified as they can be.

The Bell Ringer: What is your opinion of the school spirit and the attitude of the students at MBA?

Coach Owen: I think generally the attitude of the students is good, but I think it could be better. There are too many times when the students do not come to support the athletic teams because they have other things to do. I feel that one who is a part of this school needs to support the school in as many ways as he possibly can. I think the support of our football team has been pretty good, but I think it could be a lot better. It is unfortunate that the student body does not support the winter sports teams to any great degree because the basketball and wrestling teams are very competitive, and they need and deserve the support of the student body.

The Bell Ringer: How do the football teams of recent years compare to teams you have coached in the past?

Coach Owen: I have felt really good about most of the teams with which I have been associated. Sometimes we have not been blessed with very much talent, and some years we have not done a very good job of coaching; and at the end of the season we haven't felt very good about those teams. Fortunately, we got off to a pretty good start in 1980, and I think the teams we have had in the last few years have been very comparable to the teams of the fifties and sixties. Often the degree of competition and the amount of talent available at any time have a great bearing on how successful a team is, but I think the attitude and dedication of the players have remained pretty much the same. I think this is attributable to the winning tradition in football at MBA, a tradition which gives the players a great deal of pride in their team and gives MBA an edge over some of the teams we play.

Forensics Excels

By CRAIG FRANKLIN

The Forensics Program has continued its tradition of success. Under the new leadership of Mr. Mike Kidwell, the debate squad has had many successes this semester.

The first tournament of the year was at Austin Peay State University. After four rounds of competition, the team of Craig Franklin and Wyatt Wells captured third place with three wins and one loss to Overton. The next weekend, at the Maplewood tournament, the team of Matt Cassell and Robert Brandau received fifth place with a perfect 4-0 record. The last local tournament team attended was in Paris, Tenn. The Franklin Wells team got third place after losing again to Overton in semi-finals.

The first out of state tournament the Forensics squad attended was in Florence, Alabama at the Mars Hill Bible School. After five rounds of competition, both varsity debate teams had 3-2 records. Matt Cassell and Lyn Robbins were able to advance into elimination rounds where they lost to John Gibbons and Tim Wheat from Grimscomb High School. In the Open Division, Johnny Heer and Robert Brandau received first place.

After returning from Mars Hill, the squad attended the Madison-Overtown Tournament on November 1. In Extemporaneous Speaking Scott Haynes received second place while Alex Grimsly received third place. In Varsity Debate, Craig Franklin and Wyatt Wells won first place, and the novice team of Sam Chang and Brian Hassel won third place in their first varsity outing.

The last tournament attended was MTSU. After preliminary rounds in varsity debate Cassell-Robbins had a 5-1 and then lost in semi-finals receiving third. In Novice debate, Tony Rafalowsky received first place speaker. The entire squad has won 69 percent of its rounds, and everyone hopes to improve it in the future.

Audio-Visual Equipment Promising

By ROBERT COONEY

New audio-visual equipment in the form of the Advent Video Beam 761 and Panasonic 16 JO Programmable Video Cassette Recorder is now in use. This equipment, which came thanks to a gift from Mr. David Wilson, creates opportunities for teachers to use quality television programs in their instruction. This equipment will also give students an opportunity to see programs that are shown at inconvenient times.

Mr. Jefferson explained that they will now be able to tape programs off the television and show them back students. Most of these programs, he noted, would come from Channel 8, the area's education TV station, though quality programs or specials on the commercial networks might also be recorded.

The two Departments expected to make the most use of this equipment are the English and Science Departments. Currently the English Department is taping the Shakespeare Series, while the Science Department is taping both Nova and Cosmos, two PBS programs.

After taping programs, teachers can show them to their students during class time. They will be able to take full advantage of the six foot screen and the 70 degree viewing area to enhance viewing pleasure.

Because it works from a timer, the machine allows programs to be taped no matter at what time they are shown.

At one time the school had considered tying into the cable TV system, Viacom, which is now available in Nashville. However, Jefferson said, the video tape system would have required a special adapter to tape off the cable TV system so the idea was shelved for the time.

Jefferson said that the system will enhance significantly the opportunity available to students and faculty alike and should serve to enrich the program of instruction.

Letters To The Editors

To the editors:

I've been at MBA for 6 years now, and my stay has been the most rewarding experience of my life. I've enjoyed life on the hill since 7th grade.

However, a recent problem may cause MBA life to be less pleasant for many students. I am referring to the destruction of school property that has occurred in the Trophy Room and in the bathrooms of the Library and Wallace Hall.

I'm not going to rattle on about how immature this vandalism is, but I do want to inform the student body of the grave consequences that can result from these stupid acts.

The faculty and administration is prepared to strip the students of any privileges that they deem necessary to take away. The student council is trying hard to convince the faculty that the student body is worthy of these privileges.

Continual vandalism in the Trophy Room and other areas of the school only aggravates the situation.

If the culprit(s) is (are) not found, the student body as a whole will be punished for the vandalism.

Therefore, please don't destroy school property! You will not only be hurting your friends but you will also be hurting yourself.

I will graduate in a semester; therefore, denied privileges will not affect me as much as they will affect others. As I said,

As I said, I have enjoyed everything about MBA; I just hope that MBA will be just as enjoyable for these present underclassmen and future students. So, think before you act, you may be screwing others to the wall!

Anderson Spickard

To the editors:

It has just been recently that I have noticed how ridiculous the library is. The Trophy Room being closed, I've had to study in the library. During one day on which I had two different tests, I asked a friend to help me with a few questions I was having.

We thus took the one book we needed to study and went into the History Room.

Five minutes later, Mrs. Simmons told us to leave because no books are allowed in the History Room. When asked why no books were allowed, she replied that if books were allowed, the next step would be writing dirty words on the furniture (just like in the Trophy Room).

Realizing we could not argue with this kind of reasoning, my friend and I went into the listening room. Two minutes later we were again thrown out by Mrs. Simmons. She said that only listening to records is allowed in that room. When asked why, she retorted she was just stating the rule.

As a last resort, we went to the Lobby of the Library by the copy machine. The room was empty. Yet we were thrown out of there because Mrs. Simmons said that if someone were in the room, we would be bothersome to them.

When I pointed out that no one was in the room, she said that it did not matter. I thus ask: Shouldn't some of these rules be changed? If one has gained the privileges of using the History Room shouldn't he be able to bring a book in it? I sometimes think that Mrs. Simmons' view of a perfect library is one without anyone in it. The MBA Library is not as much a place for enlightenment as it is a place for mindless conformists to rules.

Outing Club Braves Ocoee

By BARRY STREET

For twenty-two of MBA's most adventuresome and daring students, October 3, 1980 was a very cold and exciting day. It all started at 8:30 a.m. when we piled into the school van to begin our four hour drive to the Old Copper Inn in Ducktown, Tenn., from which we would launch our attack on the much feared Ocoee River.

Those of us who had participated in the same trip in 1979 were much relieved to find that the Smokey Mountain River Expeditions, our professional guides, had replaced their flatbed shuttle truck with a true-to-life bus. Thus, the ride between the Old Copper Inn and the river was much warmer than last year's ride.

After a short safety talk and a ride to the river we distributed ourselves in the three rafts and proceeded down the river. Those who were new to the sport, immediately found themselves eagerly looking forward to each hole and, believe it or not, loving being wet in 60 degree weather.

All the way down the river, the big question was, "Who is going swimming at the calm stretch?" At first, everyone was reluctant to even think about swimming in that freezing water; but, when we reached that part of the river, everyone was already so wet that we all decided to take a dip.

Even Mack went swimming with a little help from his friends.

After everyone had tumbled back into the rafts, our guides informed us that the fun was just beginning. They commandeered our rafts safely through all of the remaining rapids, shoals and holes, the most impressive of which was "Hell's Hole." No one was worried about this hole until we dropped inside it. In front of us was a ten foot solid wall of water which was only one of the three surrounding us.

After emerging from this hole, intact and 100 percent, we became convinced that we had conquered the Ocoee River and that we had mastered the sport of rafting.

After loading the boats back on their trailers, we changed into warm, dry clothes and began our long journey home. Look out Chattanooga, you're next.

Selective Service Registration

Selective Service registration for men born in 1962 will take place during the week of January 5th, 1981. Men born in 1963 (and later) should register within 30 days of their 18th birthdays. This is a continuation of the program begun last summer, whereby men born in 1960 and 1961 visited post offices across the nation to fill in the registration form.

The purpose of registration is to build a pool of names and addresses from which Selective Service could draw in an emergency. According to Dr. Bernard D. Rosker, Director of the Selective Service System, "Registration directly improves our capability to respond . . . actually reducing lead time by at least four weeks. We think that provides a significant advantage, especially when matched with the very low cost of the registration effort." The direct costs of registration are less than $2 per registrant.

One of the basic underlying assumptions of the All-Volunteer Force concept was that the country should always maintain a stand-by Selective Service, with an on-going system of registration. When the draft was ended in 1972, registration was in fact continued until suspended in 1975. Over the next few years, the capabilities of Selective Service steadily declined to an unacceptable level, prompting a total revitalization, which began in November 1979. This program—of which registration is a part—is designed to return the Selective Service System to the readiness level required for an emergency back-up to our peace time volunteer armed forces. Other actions underway include the development of greatly improved computer support, and the development of a training program for potential draft board members.

REGISTRATION GUIDELINES:

WHO MUST REGISTER—Male citizens and aliens residing in the United States born in 1960, 1961 or 1962 except those on student or similar visas or who are members of trade or diplomatic missions, and men already serving on active duty with the Armed Forces. Members of reserve components not on active duty must register. Men born in 1963 and later years will be required to register within 30 days of their 18th birthdays.

WHEN: Men born in 1962: during the week of January 5th. To help avoid lines, individuals are encouraged to register on a day of the week keyed to the month of birth: on Monday, January 5, for those born in January, February, and March; on Tuesday, January 6, for those born in April, May and June; on Wednesday, January 7, for those born in July, August, and September; and on Thursday, January 8, for those born in October, November and December. Friday and Saturday may be used as "make-up" days for those who are unable to register on the suggested day.

Men born in 1963: within 30 days of their 18th birthdays.

Men born in 1960 and 1961 should have already registered this year; those who have not are encouraged to do so as soon as possible.

WHERE: At any of more than 34,500 U.S. Post Offices throughout the nation, or at embassies or consular offices overseas.

The Bell Ringer: Do you recall any players you have coached who have gone on to be extremely successful in life?

Coach Owen: Many of the players from some of the earlier teams have gone on to be very successful, and I think that is an indication of the kind of background that MBA has provided.

The Bell Ringer: How do you think MBA has changed since you have been here?

Coach Owen: I personally don't think that MBA has changed that much. Everything is relative to the time period, and I think the demands made by MBA on a student twenty-five years ago were very much the same relative to that time as the demands made by MBA on a student today. I think we are more selective in choosing students now than we used to be, and in some ways, I think we are too selective.

The Bell Ringer: Are there any changes you would like to see in the future?

Coach Owen: As I was just saying, I think we're too selective in our admissions process. I think we need to find out a little bit more about a person before we make a decision because many times the person who scores well on tests is not the one who is going to make the biggest contribution to the school. I believe that each boy should try to contribute to the school as much as he possibly can. I am also interested in giving students as broad an education as possible. I think the MBA education has gotten a little too narrow, and I think every student at this school should be exposed to art and music in some form. I believe that if one is not exposed to these types of things during his early years, the chance of him learning them later is very, very small.

The Bell Ringer: What do you think the future holds for MBA?

Coach Owen: Hopefully we will be flexible enough to move our program along to meet the needs of the community and the needs of the people who come to this school. We have a plan underway now to improve the overall facilities of the school, both the academic and athletic facilities. I think MBA will continue to be a leading academic school, and that when this century is over, MBA will still be the number one school in the South.

The Bell Ringer: Do you have any other comments or suggestions for the improvement of the school?

Coach Owen: I think the students need to have a much greater concern in taking care of the campus and the buildings and to have a greater respect for their fellow students. I think about 95 percent of the people are well intentioned in this respect, but unfortunately that other 5 percent causes the school a great deal of grief sometimes and creates a black mark on the reputations of all those connected with the school. I hope that in the years to come we will improve in this respect.

Destruction On Campus Widespread

By ROBERT COONEY

Problems surrounding the use of the Trophy Room as well as other phases of student behavior have become a topic of discussion around the campus in recent weeks. A great deal of the controversy around the losing of the Trophy Room in November after some derogatory words were found written on the sofa.

This incident was the climax of a problem that had been with us since early in the year. Assistant Headmaster Mike Drake said that there had been, for instance, problems with the destruction of the new chairs. He said "Some of the destruction was inadvertent and some was deliberate. Some of the chairs were damaged because the students failed to realize that because of they way the arms were made they could not be pushed under the table." Drake, however, added, "You could also see where people had put compasses and ball points through the chair." Chewing tobacco was another contributing problem.

The actual incident which brought about the closure of the room, Drake theorized, must have happened sometime during 6th period. The room had been checked several times 6th period and nothing unusual had been noticed.

At the beginning of 7th period a staff member entering the room to clean saw the words. Thus, Drake concluded, "It must have happened at the end of sixth or just before the start of seventh." The words, he said, "could have been intended to be against one staff member who had entered the room several times during 6th period and who the students thought might have seen some violation of school rules occurring."

Two more words were found upon further investigation. "After my sixth period class, I went in there and someone said, 'look over here.'" Upon looking further we found two more words on the back and side of another couch."

After discussing the situation with Student Council President Hartley Hall, the Administration, at Hall's request, closed the room. Hall was especially upset since only the day before in assembly the Student Council had said they would have meetings and find a solution to the Trophy Room problems. Hall requested an assembly without Faculty in the hopes some information might come forth but that meeting and another subsequent with students who may have been in the Trophy Room that period have thus far not yielded the identity of the guilty party or parties.

Drake said "that the Trophy Room will have to be reopened soon due to the coming of the cold weather." He suggested that it would re-open in modified form. He mentioned that the doors might be taken off or kind of back-up study hall established. Here people would be able to study together and there would be a proctor. "No more of those games," a reference to the paper football games and games with tennis balls which have occurred in there in the past.

Asked why if the problems had been going on since the first of the year, no action was taken until early November, Drake responded, "That there had been individual action period by period." He said, "a large thing in assembly might just cause an incident," which, he noted, is just what may have happened.

Turning to some of the other problems with student behavior and the destruction of school property, Drake admitted that "dipping is getting worse" and there was a bad trend with the respect to property. He spoke of the writing of derogatory words in the carrels in the library and the problems with words being written on the staff doors in the bathrooms. The doors have been taken down while being fixed. Drake said, "they will be put back up." All the doors had to be painted and one door required a new part. Drake said one student "played Godzilla" with the door.

Since mostly people on the Merit list and Privilege list use the trophy room, Drake was asked to comment on the rumor that there are a number of the Faculty who liked to see the lists eliminated or changed. He confirmed these rumors. But said, "It has to do mainly with the Merit List." "Some teachers," he said, "see many students with just border line grades out of study hall, they get 4 or 5 notes home but they are still out of study hall." Notes are sent home at 7:30; however, removal from the merit occurs only when grades fall below 70 or for excessive demerits.

Student reaction to the entire trophy room situation is mixed. Most students express concern and like Student Council President Hartley Hall, feel the problems in the trophy room are immature. As one student said, "This action (writing the words) was so immature, Alabama Shakespeare Festival Players demonstrate fighting techniques of classical acting at Shakespeare Day held at Harpeth Hall. That evening, the actors performed The Two Gentlemen of Verona, one of Shakespeare's early comedies.

irresponsible person or persons." Some did however, express concern about when the trophy would be reopened or as one put it, "if it would be turned into another faculty lounge." Mr. Drake set the record straight on that account. The taking away of privileges, a subject of great concern to Mr. Drake, seems to cause a lot of uproar within the student body. One of the students who is privileged might be affected, said, "If they cancel my privileges, I am leaving." As of yet, no definite steps have been taken towards concluding these problems. Mr. Drake says that the problems are not new, however, he does seem to indicate that they are becoming serious and more frequent; now the question is whether or not this trend will pass.

FCA: Athletes Serving Christ

By PAGE GARRETT

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes is a fellowship through which ordinary people help each other become better men and better examples of what the Lord can do with a "yielded" life.

The purpose of Fellowship of Christian Athletes is "to confront athletes and coaches, and through them, the youth of the nation, with the challenge and adventure of following Jesus Christ and serving Him through the fellowship of the church and in their occupations." It exists to serve Christ through the church.

Athletes and coaches throughout high school and college make up the local unit or chapter of FCA. However, adults in the community are also a part of these chapters. The adult members assist their chapter in primarily two ways:

1) They provide a grounds for Christian fellowship.

2) The give permanence and stability to the chapters in the community.

These chapter members are business men, coaches, clergymen, former athletes, and others who are interested in carrying out the purpose of the FCA by willingly contributing their time, talents, and/or means.

Two good examples of these adult members are Mr. Jefferson and Jeff Wilson who is a student in his last year at the Vanderbilt Divinity School and the minister at Bellevue Christian Church.

Mr. Jefferson has been the sponsor of MBA's FCA for seven years and the chapter hopes that he will continue in the future. Jeff Wilson is the chapter leader. Much of the chapter's success is due to their efforts. Through their selfless and constant dedication and leadership, MBA's chapter of FCA has become a bigger part of campus life. Not only has Mr. Jefferson been present at almost every weekly FCA meeting, for several years, but he also attends the special events that take place at other times during the year. MBA's chapter is fortunate to have their guidance and participation.

The "huddle" is the name used for FCA groups meeting on high school campuses, and a "fellowship" is the name given to FCA groups meeting on college and university campuses. This huddle/fellowship program is a group of athletes meeting to talk about their concerns, doubts, fears, feelings and faith.

For example, on a meeting night, the MBA chapter goes to an informal restaurant and eats dinner as a group. This makes for fun and a sense of fellowship. Next, after returning to MBA, there is either a guest speaker or the members of the huddle have a discussion on a wide variety of topics related to the Christian faith.

The general program emphasis is on Bible study, prayer, and discussion. From this base, each chapter is encouraged to reach out to other members of the community to positively influence them.

Each FCA chapter meets at a set time each week during the school year, usually on a week night. For example, the MBA chapter meets for 1½ to 2½ hours on Thursday nights. However, some special events take place on weekends and during the summer.

A huddle or fellowship's regular meetings take place at the high school or college where its members go to school. At present there are 28 high school huddles and 3 college fellowships in Nashville. In addition, special events are sometimes planned at various churches and other sites throughout the midstate area.

Major events in the past have included joint meetings with Harpeth Hall and St. Cecilia and picnics in the spring. Among the major speakers in the past were Rudy Kalis and Scotty Madison.

More recently a special meeting of the FCA called Date Night was held just a few weeks ago at MBA. This was a meeting to which members brought dates; it added a little extra fun and variety to the FCA program.

However, the highlight of FCA is the annual Summer National Conferences. These Conferences are held all over the nation at 28 different locations.

For 5 days each summer, nearly 10,000 athletes, coaches, and family members attend these conferences. During these 5 days, conferences compete in a variety of sports, share themselves in "huddle" discussions and hear great sports figures bear witness to their Christian faith.

The MBA chapter has scheduled several events for the coming school year. These include: carolling for Fannie Battle Day Home just before Christmas; setting up a Christmas party for the children at Martha O'Bryan Day Care Center; and collecting money to fund the research on Multiple Sclerosis in the spring.

Seventh Graders Voice Impressions

By DON FAIRBAIRN

Most MBA students will agree that the most difficult part of one's MBA career is adjusting to the rigorous academic program upon entering the school in the seventh grade.

In order to obtain a more accurate perspective of the hardships involved in the seventh grade at MBA, The Bell Ringer has conducted a poll of this year's seventh grade class, in which each student was asked to write down his impressions of the first months of school here.

Almost to a man, the seventh graders cited the amount of work and the difficulty of the academics as the most prominent impression of the school. However, several students, mainly those who had heard about the school previously from brothers or other sources, said that the academic program was not as difficult as it was played up to be.

Another comment made by nearly every person polled was that the teachers were very nice and understanding of the students' position. Many seventh graders mentioned that one of their greatest fears about coming to MBA was having to take English under Mrs. Bowen, rumored to be unmercifully strict in the classroom. However, most students found Mrs. Bowen to be quite understanding in class despite requiring stringent adherence to the disciplinary code.

Students cited many differences between MBA and the schools which they had attended previously, among them the great size of the school compared to elementary schools, the length of the classes, the athletic program and the tradition of athletic excellence, the hope that the hard work would pay off in amount of material learned, and the generally good quality of the food (Oh, how opinions change in six years).

Two of MBA's most prominent sets of regulations are the Honor Code and the Demerit System. New students' opinions of these two areas were sharply divided: most people thought that an honor system based on trust and personal integrity was a very good idea; whereas many students were dissatisfied with the disciplinary system, saying that it was unfair or arbitrary or just "stupid."

Many of the students gave very interesting responses, and the following is a fairly typical cross section of the impressions (rendered without the writers' names to avoid embarrassment to anyone).

I think Montgomery Bell Academy is a well-disciplined school which promotes much learning among the students. There is a strong feeling of competition and cooperation at Montgomery Bell Academy. I think it has a good honor system based on trust.

The seventh grade at Montgomery Bell Academy has not been as hard as it was rumored to be before I came. So far, I have not had to stay up until midnight every night to finish my homework, and we do not have to write themes every week. Over all, Montgomery Bell Academy has been a very enriching, learning, and enjoyable experience.

I never knew it was so big. I also never knew it was so hard. I hate themes, and I hate finding the area of a trapezoid.

My first impression of Montgomery Bell Academy was Mrs. Bowen and her crazy antics.

I like being here in the seventh grade at MBA. It is really fun learning how to write themes and doing pre-algebra. The science experiments are fun. Alcohol burners and chemicals are neat to work with. By seventh period I cannot wait for the great sports. So you can see the life at MBA is really terrific.

When I found out that I had passed the test at MBA, I was happy, yet scared. I had heard that you received three hours of homework and studying each day. The first day seemed never-ending. At my old school classes were only thirty minutes, so fifty minute classes seemed to take forever. But after the first few days, I grew to like MBA. I already know most of the kids in my homeroom, and I think the teachers are really nice.

New Christmas Albums

By TOM WOOD

The Christmas album deluge is upon us again. The major record companies' annual rush of new musical releases, timed to coincide with the Christmas buying season, is as prolific as ever this year, and there is new music available to suit almost any taste. The following are some of the more prominent new albums:

EAGLES LIVE

—Probably the best of this new crop of music, the double album recorded in southern California proves that the Eagles are as competent on stage as on vinyl. May be the last we hear from them for a while, on account of singer Don Henley's recent drug bust in California. Highlights include: Joe Walsh's "Life's Been Good," performed as only Joe can do it; the previously unrecorded "Seven Bridges Row," written by Nashville's Steve Young; and a tremendous tenor sax solo on "The Long Run," as well as versions of such Eagles classics as "Hotel California," "Life in the Fast Lane," "Wasted Time," "Take It Easy," "Desperado," and "Take It to the Limit," among others.

FOOLISH BEHAVIOUR

—Rod Stewart's new album seems to prove that he has outgrown his disco phase, and it is therefore one of his best efforts since Faces dissolved. The title cut is an amusing sort of corollary to John Entwistle's "My Wife," in which Rod describes in vivid detail how he plans to kill his wife. Whether he aimed this song at ex-girlfriend Britt Eckland, who revealed some embarrassing facts about Stewart in her memoirs, is debatable. The single "Passion has nearly worn out its welcome on the airwaves, but it is not the best song on the album. That honor goes to "She Won't Dance With Me," an all-out, rowdy, party tune that you won't hear on AM radio, because of Hot Rod's use of a certain choice Anglo-Saxon expletive.

HOTTER THAN JULY

—The latest showcase of the musical genius of Stevie Wonder displays a singular diversity of influences. From the hint of a reggae flavor in "Rocket Love" to the countryimitative vocals of "I Ain't Gonna Stand for It" to the funky blues sound of "Master Blaster (Jammin')," Wonder's instrumental mastery is always evident. He includes among the album's credits a note thanking the Sony Corporation for inventing the Professional Digital Audio System, and with good reason. (That device basically allows an artist to overdub many more tracks of sound in the studio, with a minimum of tape noise.) Wonder uses this capacity to overdub to its utmost potential; on most of the songs he is, excepting horns, strings, and background vocals, the only performer. He plays numerous synthesizers, bass, drums, clavinet, harpsichord, harmonica, and piano, and plays all masterfully. The album is as diversified lyrically as it is musically, with not only the usual number of love songs, but also songs that make a social statement. "Cash in Your Face" deals with a black man's trials encountered in attempting to rent a nice apartment, while "Happy Birthday" is a plea to make Martin Luther King's birthday a national holiday.

HEART

—The new double album from the Wilson sisters consists of a compilation of their greatest hits (including "Barracuda," "Crazy on You," "Straight On," "Dreamboat Annie," "Even It Up," "Magic Man," "Heartless," and "Dog and Butterfly") as well as two new songs recorded in the studio and several others recorded live. The new single "Tell It Like It Is" has been climbing the charts; the other new studio recording is "Strange Euphoria." The live songs include "Bebe Le Strange," "Mistral Wind," "Sweet Darlin'," and a medley of "I'm Down" and "Long Tail Sally," by Little Richard. Heart also renders Led Zeppelin's "Rock n' Roll," recorded live in Ann and Nancy Wilson's hometown of Seattle.

John Lennon:

The Man And His Music

By BOBBY KHAN

It seemed as if John Lennon, the man who wanted to "give peace a chance," the man who had so many troubles with U.S. immigration authorities, the man who had so many lawsuits to face after the Beatles' breakup, and the man who remained a recluse for five years, was ready to emerge into the public eye again.

He, along with his wife, Yoko had just released an album, Double Fantasy. He gave many more interviews than before. There was a tour in the making. But it was not to be.

John Lennon was brutally murdered December 8, 1980, in front of his New York City apartment. Public reaction to his death was so tremendous that it surprised the press and his most devoted fans. But why? A detailed explanation is needed.

John Winston Lennon was born in Liverpool, England, on October 9, 1940. The son of a sailor who deserted his family before John was born, John Lennon grew up with his Aunt Mimi. He learned to play the guitar through banjo chords, and at 14, he formed a band, the Quarrymen. In 1956, he met Paul McCartney and asked him to join his group. Two years later, George Harrison joined the band.

In 1960, after many name changes, the Quarrymen finally became the Beatles. In 1962, Ringo Starr joined the group. Their first record "Love Me Do" was released that year.

1963 spelled the beginning of fame for the Beatles. They caused riots at their concerts, and their records were selling in the millions. They performed for the royal family of England at the annual Variety Show. Yet, by the end of 1963, they were largely ignored in America.

Finally, after a $50,000 publicity campaign, the Beatles exploded in America. They were the first artists to write and perform their own music. From 1964-1970, the Beatles, with most of their songs written by John Lennon and Paul McCartney, recorded such classics as "Hey Jude," "Norwegian Wood," "I Am the Walrus," "Help!" and "Let It Be." Finally, in 1970, the Beatles broke up.

John Lennon commanded most of the publicity in the early years after the break-up. In 1969, he, along with his wife, conducted an extensive peace campaign against the Vietnam War. He arrived in the United States to live in 1971, but President Nixon, who felt that Lennon may be a hindrance to him, tried to deport Lennon because of an earlier obscure marijuana conviction. John Lennon, nevertheless, persisted in staying in America, and in 1976, he was given a permanent visa. Then, he virtually disappeared from the public eye until the summer of this year when Lennon announced the upcoming release of his new album, Double Fantasy.

All Beatle fans had a favorite Beatle, and my favorite of the four Beatles was probably John Lennon. His music was not as melodic or pretty as Paul McCartney's. However, his songs were almost always concerned about people, their lives, and their beliefs, as well as his own life and beliefs. Whether it's a song like "Imagine" or "Starting Over," everybody is concerned. This is why I, along with many millions, I'm sure, feel as if I have lost a friend.

As we enter the Christmas season, let us remember that this is a Christmas for "young and old," for "rich and poor," for "black and white." For even though John Lennon is gone, the one thing that he left to the world will always remain—his music.

Allman Brothers: A Blues Fan's Paradise

By TOM WOOD

The long-awaited return to the Music City of the Allman Brothers Band was virtually everything Nashville's blues purists had hoped it would be. The Brothers proved that neither a three-year separation nor personnel changes which leave only Greg Allman, Dicky Betts, and Butch Trucks from the original band have detracted in the least from their ability to jam. When Fillmore East came out nine years ago, they were the best blues band in the world, and they still are.

The Atlanta Rhythm Section opened the show, and might have left a better impression if they hadn't worn out their welcome with a set lasting an hour and a half. A.R.S. led off with "Cahmagne Jam," and the set included such past hits as "Not Gonna Let It Bother Me Tonight," "Cocaine Charlie," and "Spooky" (a song with which several in our entourage well identified). The group's rendition of "Imaginary Lover," their biggest hit, was the highlight of their set. Midway through the song, one realized that it had the same rhythm as the Rolling Stones' "Miss You," and then the band spontaneously went into that Stones' song. This added some originality to what was at times a rather stale show. The boys from Doraville finished with "Large Time" and invited themselves back out for an encore, "Doraville," before departing for good.

Somebody had done a fine job or organizing this event, for the crowd was even kept amused during the usually boring intermission between sets. Two inebriated patrons in Section G provided the entertainment with a pugilistic conflict that would put Duran and Leonard to shame. I felt somewhat like a Roman at the Coliseum, as the crowd was riveted on these modern gladiators. The crowd saved its most vociferous adulation for the fighter who took a poke at the Metro cop who was brave or foolish enough to try to escort him away. The men in blue then descended to prevent a riot (aw, shucks) and removed those responsible for the disturbance to the lower level of the auditorium, where they were, no doubt, intimately acquainted with the billy club.

The Allman Brothers Band took the stage to thunderous applause and began with what turned out to be the musical highlight of the evening: a medley of "Don't Want You No More" and "It's Not My Cross to Bear." The searing guitar licks of Dicky Betts and Dangerous Dan Toler, combined with Greg's keyboards and haunting vocals, made this medley one of those unforgettable concert moments that one still remembers years later. The band did Allman's "Can't Take It With You" and "Need Your Love So Bad," as well as Dicky's "Blue Sky" and the first of several virtuosic instrumentals, "In Memory of Elizabeth Reed."

An addition of dubious merit to the songs was a menagerie of various state-of-the-art electronic devices, including a Mellotron, electric piano, keyboard synthesizers, and some sort of handheld synthesizer, all operated by Nashvillean Mike Lawler. The electronics added a dimension to songs from the Brothers' latest album, Reach for the Sky, which are written around the weird sound effects. These effects did not seem to complement, however, such basic blues classics as "One Way Out," "Southbound," and "Whipping Post."

High points of the show included Jimmy Hall's guest harmonica appearance on "Southbound," the band's rendition of "Angeline," from Reach for the Sky, and the closing number, the classic "Whipping Post." A disappointment was the keyboard work in the instrumental "Jessica," as Lawler's electronic piano failed to capture the excitement of Chuck Leavell's solo on the Brothers and Sisters studio version.

The band returned for their encores with a 25-minute opus called "Pegasus." Entirely instrumental, it included a 12-minute percussion duet by Butch Trucks and Frannie Toler (guitarist Dan's brother), the highlight of which occurred when Butch went off on the tympani. The rest of the band returned to finish the song, and then went immediately into Dicky Betts' southern classic, "Ramblin' Man." They rendered this song in fine style, with Betts' and Toler's guitar interplay conjuring up images of Toler's predecessor, Duane Allman.

The concert was thus concluded at midnight, and we went home satisfied and counting the days until their next Nashville appearance, which will probably be at Volunteer Jam VII in early January.

Bike Race To Return

The Bell Ringer is proud to announce its Second Annual Spring Bike Race to be held in February. This year's event should be as exciting as last year's. The course, sixteen laps around the campus, requires speed along the library drive, skill in dismounting and shuffling across the creek, and endurance in the cross-country biking.

The teams for the event are each made up of four members and can be sponsored by a club or school organization or be an independent team. Last year's winners were "The Road Hackers"—Steve Stephens, Alex Grimsley, Mike Hughes, and Dan Jones. Their winning time was 30 minutes, 54.49 seconds.

As the time for the race draws closer, further details concerning rules and regulations will be forthcoming. The announcement of the exact date will be made as soon as possible.

Varsity Cagers Start Slowly

By DON FAIRBAIRN

The 1980-1981 edition of the MBA Varsity Basketball Team has been beset with several early-season difficulties and has compiled only a 1-3 record thus far.

Because of the loss of four seniors from the starting line-up, including the irreplaceable all-state point guard Ricky Bowers, this year's team is one of the least experienced in recent years. However, returning lettermen Scott Tune, Mike Johnson, and captain Anderson Spickard provide hopes for a successful season. Other bright spots on this year's team are the return of Mike Anderson, recovered from a knee injury from the 1979 football season, and the ascension of several of last year's JV players, among them Pen Caldwell, Tim Ford, and Mike Hutcherson, to the varsity level.

Past MBA basketball teams have not performed well early in the season, and this team proved to be no exception. The Big Red opened the season by traveling to rival BGA after only two weeks of practice since the Nurseryman's Bowl. MBA took an early lead and led at the end of the first quarter 13-10, but the well-disciplined Wildcats soon took control of the tempo of the game, and MBA's lead vanished into a 21-17 deficit at halftime. The Big Red shot poorly throughout the evening, shooting only 35 percent in field goals and 36 percent from the free throw line. In addition, despite Mike Anderson's eight rebounds, MBA was outplayed and outscored around the basket, and the game ended with BGA the victor 48-40. Leading the scoring in the losing effort were Anderson Spickard with 15 points and Mike Anderson with 10.

In the next game, MBA hosted a very talented Glencit team, expected to challenge for the District Championship this year. The squad showed improvement defensively, but continued poor shooting and the superior height of the Colts led to a second defeat by a score of 61-49. Anderson Spickard led the team offensively with 20 points, while Mike Anderson once again led the Big Red in rebounds with 11 carroms. Scott Tune, Tim Ford, and Mike Johnson played well defensively against players four or five inches taller than they.

The following night, MBA journeyed to Hillwood to play a team which bore no resemblance to the Hilltoppers which the Big Red had thoroughly trounced a year ago. The addition of several players from Bellevue resulted in a much taller and greatly improved opponent. Nevertheless, the Big Red was able to keep up with the Hilltoppers, and despite the height disadvantage, MBA carried a 29-28 lead into the dressing room at half-time. This advantage was quickly nullified, however, when Hillwood shot a blistering 58 percent from the field in the second half and went on to win the game by a score of 64-53. Again MBA was led by Mike Anderson with 19 points and 10 rebounds and by Anderson Spickard with 18 points and 7 rebounds.

After a week of practice the team's fortunes finally changed for the better when MBA played a likewise inexperienced Overton team at Brownlee O. Curry Gymnasium. In the first half, the Big Red rode a previously unseen streak of good shooting (50 percent from the field and 89 percent free throws) to a 30-24 halftime lead. In the second half, the team did not shoot as well, but good defensive play by Tim Ford, Mike Hutcherson, and Mike Johnson allowed MBA to seal its first victory of the season by a score of 54-46. Captain Anderson Spickard led all scorers with 17 points, while Mike Anderson scored 16 points and had 13 rebounds, and Scott Tune added 10 points.

Despite the slow start, the Big Red basketball team has shown steady improvement and several players have performed very well. As the team gains experience and iron out some of the early-season problems, MBA should once again be capable of competing with the best teams in the district.

Big Red Football Wins Five Straight

By KEVIN MALER

Having lost two consecutive games to McCallie and Ryan, the Big Red entered the Overton game desperately needing a victory. The team got the victory by soundly defeating a young Overton team. The offensive line took control of the game early, with Wade Smith, Jim Tully, and Rob Lineberger receiving much attention for their outstanding play. The line paved the way for Mark Daniel to gallop for 118 total yards, including one touchdown. Kris Klausner added another with a 32-yard reception from Scott Tune. Billy Rolfe turned in a miracle TD, snatching up a Mark Daniel fumble and running it 48 yards for a TD. The Big Red's 317 yard total offense put MBA back on the winning trail.

Hillwood

MBA went into its homecoming game facing a much publicized Hillwood-Bellevue team. The Big Red put aside this hype, however, and easily defeated the Toppers on a muddy, rain-soaked field. MBA got on the board first with Scott Tune's 46-yard pass to a squirming Ken Downey. In the second quarter Daniel and Rolfe both put in touchdowns from 2 and 4 yards, respectively. The Big Red came back in the second half with another score when Scott Tune hit an overpowering Mike Johnson from the 14. Late in the fourth quarter, however, the Toppers threatened with two "Hail Mary" passes for touchdowns. It was too little too late, however, as the clock expired; the Big Red was rolling with a 4-2 record.

Hendersonville

The Big Red now faced the arm of Tommy Stamps and the hands of Cowboy Lancaster as well as the largest line the team had played against thus far in the game with Hendersonville. However, the Big Red overcame these obstacles and fought to 14-10 victory. After a long drive MBA got on the board 7-0. The Commandos came back with 10 unanswered points. In the fourth quarter, Scott Tune broke an incredible 80 yard run to put MBA ahead 14-10. With three minutes on the clock the Big Red defense held Hendersonville, culminated by Whitfield Hamilton's and Ally Fuqua's sack to turn the ball over and insure the victory by a narrow margin.

Antioch

The Big Red, in an emotional game unofficially dedicated to Kevin Maler and John Wagster, defeated a young but quick Antioch team. Scott Tune scored twice in the first quarter and Scott Haynes ended the half by adding a wobbly 17-yard field goal. In the third quarter, Rolfe added another TD. After a pass interception and touchdown by Garrett Fulton, MBA ended the game the victory by a score of 31-0.

Scott Tune leads the offense during the Antioch battle.

Glenciff

MBA concluded the regular season with its sixth consecutive victory, a 28-6 triumph over the Glenciff Colts at Frank Andrews Field. The team's performance was less than stellar; otherwise, the margin of victory might have been much greater. The offense fumbled on the first two possessions and graciously refused an attempt by the Colts to give away the game on a silver platter with an anemic 14-yard punt that gave MBA possession at their opponent's 20. A missed field goal attempt smothered this opportunity. After a fumble gave them back the ball at Glenciff's 22, MBA finally scored on Billy Rolfe's 11-yard stampede. Wick's kick failed, and the score stood 6-0.

Mark Daniel's three-yard run with 4:29 remaining in the second quarter capped a methodical 41-yard drive. A two-point try failed; MBA led 12-0.

With only 14 seconds left until halftime, Scott Tune passed to Kris Klausner for a 9-yard touchdown to cap a 9 play, 49-yard drive that was all Scott Tune. Tune intercepted a Glenciff aerial at the 49, then switched to offense and hit Ken Downey and Mike Johnson to set up the score. A pass to Downey accounted for the conversion.

The Big Red scored one more after controlling the ball for most of the third stanza. Tune's one-yard run and subsequent conversion run gave MBA an insurmountable 28-0 lead. The Colts finally got on the scoreboard with a 66-yard bomb late in the game.

With a regular-season record of 8 wins and 2 losses, the Big Red was invited to participate in the Nurseryman's Bowl. This honor typifies the fine season for the team as it proved its abilities on the field.

Steve Stephens runs his best time in the Region V Cross Country Tournament.

Cross Country Performs Well

By MARTIN BROWN

The varsity cross-country team placed second in both the N.I.L. and the region. M.B.A. also qualified for the state meet.

The cross-country team went into the second half of the season with a 5-1 dual meet record. M.B.A. then defeated Overton to capture the AAA Western Division crown for the fourth straight year. The team ran in the Lipscomb Invitational before entering the N.I.L. and regional competition.

Sophomore Walt Zibas ran the team's best time of 15:52 at the state meet. Rich Good was the second fastest team member with a time of 16:08 in the Region V meet.

Some M.B.A. runners received honors at the end of the season. Walt Zibas and Rich Good were on the All-N.I.L. Second Team. Allen Moore, team captain Anderson Spickard, and Steve Stevens received honorable mentions for the All-N.I.L. team. Rich Good, Anderson Spickard, and Steve Stevens were also on the All-AAA Western Division first team. Martin Brown was a member of the All-AAA Western Division second team.

When asked about this year's team, Coach Michael Drake said that the team was slightly short on competitive depth. "I am not disappointed with the effort, only the outcome," said Coach Drake. The coach answered a question on how the loss of Allen Moore, the team's fastest runner for the first half of the season, affected the team. "Statistically, it cost M.B.A. the N.I.L. crown; however, for the Region V meet, motivation was also a factor," Coach Drake said. Overall, the coach said that he has no complaints, because the team made a superb effort.

Coach Drake said the "B" team ran extremely well. The "B" team's first five members were in the first fifteen places of the "B" team N.I.L. meet. Coach Drake praised the improvement of John Levy, Mark Oldham, and Chris Guzikowski and is looking forward to their participation on the team next year. The coach also thinks there is real potential in Patrick Rau, an eighth-grader who practiced with the varsity during the week of the state meet.

M.B.A.-24 Overton-33

Although Nashville's fastest runner Mark Askev won the race, M.B.A.'s Walt Zibas was not far behind with a time of 16:19. Rich Good, Steve Stevens, Anderson Spickard, and Martin Brown also finished as MBA's top five runners.

Lipscomb Invitational

The "A" team finished fourth behind powerful Hillwood in this meet on an unusual course. MBA's top runner withdrew from the meet because of painful stomach cramps. Walt Zibas, another sophomore, finished first for MBA despite falling behind the whole team after losing a shoe early in the race. Rich Good and Anderson Spickard placed fifteenth and nineteenth respectively. Steve Stevens and Martin Brown finished in twentieth and fortieth place.

In leading the "B" team to a first place finish in the Division II meet, freshman Chris Guzikowski placed fourth. Rick Sullivan, Nick Fabian, John Levy, and Mark Oldham rounded out the top for M.B.A. All five runners finished in the first twenty overall.

N.I.L. Meet

Led by captain Anderson Spickard's tenth place finish, MBA outclassed all of the twenty-one teams in the N.I.L. except for Hillwood. MBA's first four received trophies for their finishes in the top thirty places. Anderson's time of 16:10 was his best for the season. Walt Zibas and Rich Good placed fourteenth and fifteenth respectively. Steve Stevens placed twenty-first, and Martin Brown placed forty-sixth.

The "B" team's first five runners were in the first fifteen overall although no one recorded the score of the "B" team meet. Rick Sullivan, Chris Guzikowski, Nick Fabian, Wade Elam, and Mark Oldham were M.B.A.'s top five.

Region V Meet

MBA finished second in the Region V meet to Hillwood and qualified for the state meet. While leading the team with a tenth place finish, Walt Zibas ran a time of 15:54, the third fastest time ever recorded by a MBA sophomore. Richard Good, Steve Stevens, Martin Brown and Steve Anderson also ran their best times of the season. Rich Good placed fourth and Steve Stevens placed eighth. Anderson Spickard and Martin Brown placed thirty-first and thirty-seventh.

Led by Nick Fabian's seventh place finish in the "B" meet, the "B" team also ran well. Chris Guzikowski, Robert McConnell, John Levy, and Steve Hines rounded out M.B.A.'s first five.

State Championship Meet

MBA placed twelfth in the state. Only Walt Zibas, whose time was 15:52, ran his best time of the season.

Walt led the team with his thirty-ninth place finish. Rich Good placed fifty-first, and Anderson Spickard placed sixtieth. Allen Moore returned to the team with little training and placed sixty-eighth. Steve Stevens placed eighty-fifth.

Cross Country Wins Weenie Bowl

By MARTIN BROWN

On November seventh, a clamorous clan of cross country meadow frolickers defeated a gutsy group of golfing gamblers twenty-three to fourteen in a football game. Although some players showed real talent, others showed why they run and play golf instead of playing football.

The standout at running, catching, and passing for the cross country team was their captain Anderson Spickard. He was more than a major part of their offense.

Both teams scored mainly on passes. Tim Ford buzzed a pass to Mike Hutcherson to score first for the golf team. However, the cross country team came back on a run for a touchdown made by Anderson Spickard. The runners proceeded "to deal" on the golfers. Steve "the Snake" Anderson threw for touchdowns to Anderson Spickard and Wade Elam. Rich "Tough as Nails" Good chalked up two points for cross country on a safety. Yet, the golf team started a comeback by scoring in the fourth quarter on a quarterback sneak by Mike Anderson. Their drive was too late, however, as the golf team did not score again.

Both coaches were important because they played as well as coached. Coach Robert "Macho" Pruitt directed the cross country team. Dr. "White Shoes" Fairbairn coached the golf team.
